Workshop addressing the factors affecting meat production (breeding, nutrition, reproduction, sex, management, animal health, and diseases), the nutritional value of goat meat, methods of slaughter, processing techniques, consumer preferences, and the national and international marketing of goats. Discussions were also highlighted by country case studies, prevailing situations, issues and policies, and potential for improving the prevailing patterns of production, as well as research and development, strategies for increasing production, and export potential, especially in Near East markets.

Aquaculture is currently facing a significant challenge: how to alleviate the pressure on fish stocks exerted by commercial fishing and yet meet the increasing demand for sea products in a sustainable way. The aim of this guide is to promote the sustainable development of Mediterranean aquaculture by providing basic guidelines for good practice in site selection and site management.

This report assesses trends and prospects for the global economy and the international trading system, with a particular focus on the issues of capital formation, structural change and international competitiveness. It considers current difficulties dating back to the financial excesses and global economic imbalances of the 1990s, and examines the need for new thinking on development strategies. A range of issues are discussed including continuing weaknesses in developed economies, disparities in growth performance in developing and transition economies, policies required to promote global recovery, capital flows to developing countries, trade flows and balances. It examines policy reforms and economic performance in Latin America, where market-led trade reforms have gone furthest but where initial signs of success have not endured.

This booklet describes, in a non-technical manner, some important aspects of the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries. The purpose is to create greater awareness of the goals and purpose of the Code and to encourage its effective application in all capture fisheries and in aquaculture. This booklet does not replace the Code of Conduct but simply presents some of the complex information contained within the Code in a simplified form in an attempt to make it more accessible to all users of fisheries.

This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue "Nutrigenetics" that was published in Nutrients
